

Warn Cattle Owners Of Impending Disease

Mr. O. O. Swords, County Agent, today warned all live stock producers in this area that Anaplasmosis has been discovered in the Northern part of Hancock County.

He says it is advisable for all cattle owners in this area to be aware of this disease.

Below is his description of the disease, what usually causes it and how it may be treated.

Anaplasmosis is a disease affecting the red blood cells of the animal. It affects all breeds of cattle and is characterized by anemia, fast breathing, fever, rapid loss of weight and milk production, and loss of appetite. Cattle that recover are immune to but permanent carriers of the disease. Symptoms vary from mild in calves to acute or chronic in older cattle.

Anaplasmosis is spread chiefly by blood sucking insects, such as flies, ticks and mosquitoes, feeding on an infected animal and immature along with an effective fly control program which will aid in controlling the spread of this disease. Affected animal must be handled with care or losses will occur due to suffocation since the oxygen carrying red blood cells are greatly reduced in number. No preventative vaccines have been developed.

Generally the Anaplasmosis "season" is May through November.

In the event you see a condition among your herd resembling the disease described above, consult your local Veterinarian.

Blast Demolishes District Attorney's Plane Saturday

OFFICERS CHECK EVIDENCE

Stone County Chief Deputy Sheriff Eldon (Red) Ladner said his office was notified of the explosion shortly before 7 a.m.

Ladner said five residents in the area near the grass-covered airstrip told him they heard "one loud explosion" about 2 a.m. However, the explosion was not reported, Ladner said, until several persons drove by the airstrip at dawn.

Stone County Sheriff James Hudspeth, Chief Deputy Ladner and State Ptn. D. E. Vernon and Billy Herron, both stationed in the Wiggins area, were the first officers on the scene.

District Attorney Holloman whose district includes Stone, Jackson, Harrison and Hancock counties, arrived by automobile at the airstrip from Vancleave about 9:50 a.m.

Holloman told newsmen he had no idea who could have set off the explosion although he said that, due to a district attorney's occupation as a prosecutor of criminals "it could have been a lot of people."

Holloman said the airplane, a four-passenger Cessna 182, had been parked in the shed since last Saturday when he returned from a flight to Jackson.

He said he had considered using the craft to fly to his fishing camp near Vancleave but decided at the last moment to make the trip with his family by automobile.

Stone County Prosecutor Roy Strickland of Wiggins, a close friend of Holloman, said the district attorney had told him earlier he might fly to New York City over the weekend to attend a baseball game there.

BOARD TO MEET

A meeting of the Bay-Waveland Garden Club Executive Board will be held at 2:30 p.m. Monday, September 11, at the Garden Center on Leonard Avenue, Mrs. R. F. Gray, president, announced.

So far not much progress has been made in the investigation of the explosion which destroyed a $17,000 airplane owned by District Attorney Boyce Holloman, near his Wiggins home early last Saturday morning.

Some parts of the material taken from the wrecked plane have been sent to Washington, D. C., for examination at the Federal Bureau of Investigation laboratory.

The explosion which occurred about 2 a.m. last Saturday, virtually destroyed the airplane, owned by District Attorney Holloman while the craft was parked in a hangar at an airstrip about two miles south of Wiggins, on Highway 49.

The district attorney and his family were at a fishing camp near Vancleave in Jackson County on a weekend outing at the time.

No one was injured by the mysterious blast apparently set off by some type of powerful explosive.

Stone County Chief Deputy Sheriff Eldon (Red) Ladner said the sheriff's office was notified of the explosion shortly before 7 a.m.

Ladner said five residents in the area near the grass-covered airstrip told him they heard "one loud explosion" about 2 a.m. However, the explosion was not reported, Ladner said, until several persons drove by the airstrip at dawn.

COAST ELECTRIC POWER ASSOCIATION . . . is a corporation.

Like other Electric Power Associations in the state, it is a Mississippi Corporation, organized and chartered under Mississippi Law. It is a business, established for the purpose of distributing electric power throughout its area of operation.

This Electric Power Association is completely owned and controlled by the people, or members, it serves. Each member owns an equal share of the business.

Like a lot of other businesses, this Corporation has a mortgage. In order to get the business started, the members borrowed money from a special bank, the Rural Electrification Administration. Also like any other sound business, we're repaying our loan, with interest. There our connection with "REA" ends.

The difference in this business and that of most other similar corporations is that our "mark-up," or the amount we charge above the wholesale cost of electricity does not allow for any profit.

An Electric Power Association is, in accordance with its charter of incorporation, a non-profit business. The margin between wholesale and retail in this business covers repayment of the loan, interest, and operating costs.

Our business was born of necessity. Prior to the establishment of Electric Power Associations in Mississippi, electric power was rarely available outside the cities. Commercial power companies either could not or would not serve those areas at a price the people could afford to pay. So groups of people throughout the state worked together to form the EPA's so they could sell electricity to themselves. As a result, they have profited from vastly increased income through the use of time-saving electric power, and in terms of a higher standard of living.

Today, throughout Mississippi, these Corporations are owned and controlled by almost a million Mississippians, serving themselves with dependable electric power at a price they can afford.

WAY OUT FRONT

We hear much about the strides Russia is making in space travel, nuclear weapons and the like, but the latest information we have concerning their food and nutrition levels tells us that the United States is "way out in front."

Recently returned from a tour of Russia's food plants and research centers, Dr. G. E. Hilbert of the United States Department of Agriculture reports that country's food planning, growing and processing techniques are moving very slowly.

In fact he said, if we would take decades for the Soviets to reach U.S. standards of achievement even if we were to stand still.

Pretty hard to beat America's advanced food technology, and our fine farmers throughout the land.

FOREST FIRE PREVENTION

EFFECTS BENEFIT ECONOMY

Mississippi experienced its best fire season during the past fiscal year which ended June 30. Fire occurrence was at an all-time low. For the first time since 1939-41, the number of acres burned by wild forest fires dropped below 60,000 acres with the total reaching 59,629 acres.

The considerable amount of rainfall throughout the state was a factor in Mississippi's excellent record last year, but the fire prevention efforts of people have also played a major role in helping to establish this all-time favorable mark in forest fire prevention.

Everyone benefits by organized efforts to safeguard Mississippi's forestry resources.

State Fair

A recent report from the State Fair Commission indicates that the fair is well on its way to success. The new buildings are completed and work on the grounds is progressing.

1960 level for 1961, and increased acreage for the major shows. Midway acreage is up 15 per cent.

Highway up 15 per cent.

Oat production is up 15 per cent, and rice production is expected to be about 15 per cent higher than 1960. The total crop output is expected to be up about one per cent over 1960. Broiler supply reached a new all-time high this spring and summer although egg production did not reach the level expected earlier.

There is a slight increase in cotton acreage this year.

FORESTRY NOTES

The Mississippi Forestry Commission, through a cooperative wood management program with U. S. Forest Service, employs Foresters for the purpose of assisting private landowners of Mississippi with their wood management.

During the fiscal year ended June 30, 1961, fourteen management foresters for the Mississippi Forestry Commission, under this program assisted 966 woodland owners in their timber activities.

These foresters prepared management plans, provided advice and assistance to timber stand improvement and tree planting activities, and selectively marked a total of 103,104 acres throughout Mississippi.

The Forest Management program of the Mississippi Forestry Commission is geared to benefit timberland owners and partic-

Smaller Calves More Profitable Than Large Ones

STATE COLLEGE, Miss.—Small calves are producing more beef and more profit per acre of winter grazing than larger steers in Experiment Station tests.

In winter grazing test at the North Mississippi Branch Station at Holly Springs 450-pound steers were stocked at the rate of one per acre. But when smaller steers, weighing about 250 pounds, were used, the same type pasture carried 1½ animals per acre. In the 150-day grazing periods, small steers gained about as much as large ones.

When Agronomist B. L. Arnold averaged results of the two tests, he found small steers returned $45 per head or $71 per acre above feed and pasture costs. This compared to $18 per head and per acre for the larger steers.

Complete details of this report are published in the August issue of Mississippi Farm Research available on request from the Experiment Station at State College.

In another study Superintendent E. G. Morrison of the Brown Loam Station at Oakley found lightweight steer calves were more profitable than heavy ones. Calves weighing 267 pounds stocked at a rate of 1.75 animals per acre were compared to one 475 pound calf per acre. Light calves produced 491 pounds and a profit of $47.88 per acre. Heavy calves produced 351 pounds and $14.52 per acre.

Late calves weighing 200 to 300 pounds are too small to market at weaning time in the fall. Research indicates winter grazing offers Southern cattlemen a good chance to make money from them.

ularly small landowners. In order for Mississippi's 550 million dollar forest industry to expand to its potential of one billion dollars, emphasis must be placed upon proper management of small timber holdings. The overwhelming importance of this is shown by the fact that 80 percent of Mississippi's 17.2 million acres of forest land is in ownerships of 5000 acres or less, and most of it is in ownership of 500 acres or less.

Mississippians of all ages are in for six fun-filled days starting Monday, October 9, when once again the Mississippi State Fair opens in Jackson. Continuing through Saturday, October 14, the Fair will offer entertainment, education and excitement for all.

Agricultural and industrial displays and exhibits from every section of the state will be featured in addition to prize-winning livestock, poultry, arts and crafts, food preservation and other displays.

Again this year, the Fair will have as its chief entertainment attraction the gigantic Royal American Shows midway with 50 shows and rides. Among the exciting rides this year will be the world's largest portable Roller Coaster, the thrilling Tilt-A-Whirl, the Wild Mouse, the Round-Up and the fascinating Rotor Ride. Sensational new rides this year include the Paratrooper and the thrilling Calypso, specially made in Germany for the Royal American Shows.

A standard popular favorite among the shows, "Harlem Revue" will return this year with a completely different and new show. The Club Lido musical revue, featuring highly talented entertainers, singers, dancers and comedians, is the sensational musical extravaganza featured at this year's Fair.

To aid fairgoers in planning their attendance at the Fair, the week's program of events is scheduled as follows: Monday—Open Day (official opening of all amusements and exhibits) and Press Day; Tuesday—Legislators' Day and Veterans (all veteran service organizations) Day; Wednesday.

NEW ADMISSION POLICY ANNOUNCED AT MISS. SOUTHERN

HATTIESBURG — A new admissions policy announced today by Mississippi Southern College requires that new students, freshmen and transfers alike, must make application at least seven days prior to the beginning of registration for the fall quarter of 1961.

Incoming students must submit to Mr. Lucas' office the following documents:

- (1) A completed application form;
- (2) transcripts from high schools, junior colleges and colleges attended;
- (3) medical certificate;
- (4) five letters of recommendation from Mississippi Southern alumni.

Dr. William D. McCain, president of the college, stated that this means no application postmarked later than midnight, Sept. 13, will be considered. Registration for the fall quarter begins the night of Sept. 20 with Evening College registration.

The president said that the new admission policy also will be in effect at residence centers at Biloxi and Meridian and at the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory.

New students must have completed all admissions requirements and have in their possession certificates of admission issued by Aubrey K. Lucas, Director of Admissions, before they will be permitted to register.

Some half-million Americans who own Series H Savings Bonds bought between June 1952 and January 1957 are in for a nice surprise — one that will bring extra money into their pockets.

A. J. Becker, County Savings Bonds Chairman, calls attention to recent change in Treasury regulation permitting owners of these Series H Savings Bonds to continue holding them for an additional 10 years at a straight 3% per cent annually.

"Holders of these Series H Savings Bonds will be notified by the Treasury of the extension privilege granted them when they receive their next to last interest check. Owners will not have to do anything about extending their

GOOD HUNTING AND FISHING IN DELTA

One of the major attractions for the non-resident live in the many fishing streams and hunting stands found in the Delta. Each hunting season, people from all parts of the country pour in, and the Delta lakes are famous for their fishing. Names like Choctaw, Eagle Lake, Steel Bayou and Blue Hole are known from north of the Mason-Dixon line to the Gulf Coast as some of the best fishing spots in the nation.

How to get up to 30 extra miles per tankful

Shell test drivers add a "fifth wheel" to their cars for precise distance measurement during mileage tests. It helps them record performance to a decimal point.

Here are some tips from Shell's experts on how to get maximum mileage from your car. If you practice these good driving habits — and if you use today's Super Shell, with 9 ingredients for top performance — you may well save a pretty penny on gasoline bills.

HELL scientists spend much of their working lives figuring out how to get the most mileage out of a gallon of gasoline. Here are some of the things they've learned:

1. Don't race a cold engine. When your engine is cold, it uses up more fuel. You're also in danger of under lubrication. You pay in greater engine wear.

NOTE: Today's Super Shell has fast warm-up ingredients to save gasoline. And Shell X-100® Premium Motor Oil moves freely even when cold — saves fuel and reduces engine wear.

2. Use a light touch on the accelerator. Tromping down on the pedal is an expensive habit. Starting up, it holds your automatic transmission in a lower "gear" longer — makes the engine turn faster, wasting fuel. Under way, uneven pedal pressure is costly, too. Feed just enough fuel to maintain even speed.

3. Drive "ahead of your car." Watch for slowing traffic and red lights as far ahead as you can see. Then coast up to the stopping cars, instead of braking heavily when you get there.

7. Check for dragging brakes. Have your Shell dealer check for wheel drag next time you're in for a lubrication. If brakes drag, you pay for it every mile.

4. Don't let fuel costs creep up at the stop light. If your car "creeps" when idling with the automatic transmission engaged, have your idle speed adjusted. If you drive a stick shift, remember that pumping the accelerator won't change the light. It only uses up gasoline.

5. Don't indulge in jack rabbit starts. Racing starts are fine on race tracks — but the drivers of those cars are lucky to get 6 miles per gallon.

NOTE: Air resistance at high
